

IG DM's Meeting Notes – February 17, 2022

- Opportunity to update and ask questions on Emergency Measures Act (EMA)
- Can set up bilateral convos to go through detailed questions about the operationalization of the orders – some have been had already
- Late Tuesday evening orders and declaration was published as well as sent letters to all Premiers
 - No other orders being drafted currently
- Late Wednesday (16th) tabled in House for debate as per Act provisions; debate has started and will continue without interruption until both Houses vote – if concur then in effect for 30 days, but if do not concur then orders eliminated
 - Once package is posted will provide link – includes report on consultations (FMM details at general level) and rationale
- QB: can confirm OPP has asked for support from SQ but can't provide any further details
- RCMP has joined with teams across Canada so they are familiar with tools available as well as SQ and municipalities
 - If your teams need to understand feds can support
- MB: any active border closures?
 - Feds – don't believe so
 - CGL area in BC – bad scenario – people showing up with axes and trying to determine if a link with the protests
- First document explains the rationale why EMA was triggered; extensive doc but not a legal factum
 - Risk side – significant evidence of illegal activity, situation volatile, extremism and violence and intel regarding prospective violence (range of influence – not a unified movement); moving towards narrative on social media into action
- Second document provides documentation on interactions b/w Premiers, law enforcement, etc. b/f triggering act
- BC: draw down model (nothing happens unless jurisdiction requests)
 - Law enforcement can choose to use based on circumstances; do not replace/supersede PT jurisdiction; if municipality contacts feds they will then contact PT (no interaction with muni)
 - Banking applies nationally
- Cade: $750M funding – any more details? Link to housing that Freeland mentioned?
 - No details available but fed finance is working on it
 - Finance holding meeting tomorrow on this funding
